

System and Unit Test Report

Trades

Group 22: Daniel Tjandra

dtjandra@ucsc.edu

Time length:

6-5-2017

I worked primarily on the Firebase Database implementation. This involved flooding the database with a lot of varying test data and making sure our functions were robust. I had to test compatibility of data types within functions across the program and ensure that all variables were nested properly and within proper scope. This also meant that I checked nearly all functions for correctness and kept track of all data flows.